

Gunmen Oversleep and Miss Trap Set for Them as Bank Robbers; Liquor is Blamed

Wild Party the Night Before Causes Slip in Plans for Hold-up, Details of Which Had Been Given Police; Gettysburg Trooper Called in to Stand Guard.

Corporal William Kaspovich, in command of the Gettysburg sub-station of the state police, was among state officers called to Reading, Thursday, to guard banking institutions against which, Reading police had been advised, there would be a robbery attempt. Three men were arrested on suspicion and three women were detained by officers in a round-up of alleged suspicious characters in the Berks county seat, Thursday, but the bank hold-up failed to materialize.

Details Given Police

According to an Associated Press news dispatch, at 8:45 o'clock Thursday morning a man was to walk from the Oakbrook branch of the Reading National bank, police averred, light a cigarette, then throw it into the street. Two gunmen, who were watching him would receive this signal as a tip that one man was alone in the bank and that they should enter and loot it.

But something went wrong, the police say. They learned later that the two alleged gunmen had been on a drinking party and overslept. They failed to show up for the "party" and thereby missed a trap that had been set for them.

Police, who arrested three men and two women later in the day, said they had been told several days ago that a bank would be robbed Thursday. As a result they had an armed guard over every bank in Berks county.

State Cops Guard Banks State police from West Reading, Gettysburg and Harrisburg guarded the county banks. Reading police in civilian clothes were on duty at every Reading bank. But there was no call for their services.

At noon, however, police followed an automobile through the center of Reading, forced it to the curb, and arrested Harry Wilson, 25, of Reading, and Alec Krebs, 28, of Pottstown, at the point of sawed-off shotguns. Later they took into custody Arthur G. Sonch, 30, a former state policeman. One woman, who was in the automobile with Wilson and Krebs, also was taken into custody, but police refused to divulge her name. Later a second woman was questioned by police and released.

In the automobile, police say, they found an extra set of license plates, a gun for two men and a woman, fully loaded pistols and a blackjack.

All the prisoners were turned over to state police who as yet have served no warrants.

Selling Storm Forces Stocks Down to Record Low Levels in Gotham

Trading Unusually Heavy and Many Issues, Including Several Motors, Take Drastic Slump; Steel Goes to New Low Level; Values Depleted Two Billion Dollars.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—The stock market ran into another storm of selling orders today which carried scores of issues down one to 20 points.

Many issues, including several motors, were carried into new low ground for the year.

Trading was in unusually heavy volume, the ticker quickly falling 35 minutes behind the market.

Prices headed upward around noon today, and the volume of trading continued exceptionally heavy, and at that hour the ticker was about 45 minutes late.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—The stock market had one of the most drastic breaks in recent years Thursday.

A heavy wave of selling in the last hour carried scores of issues down $6 to $70 a share.

Many of the high-grade stocks sold down $40 to $120 a share below the year's highs, which, in many cases, were reached less than a month ago.

More than two billion dollars in quoted values was washed away on the stock exchange alone, five of the most active issues accounting for more than $500,000,000. Sympathetic declines took place on the curb exchange, where many of the losses ran from $5 to $34 a share, and in all other leading security exchanges of the country.

Several of the motors and specialties sank to new low levels for the year. United States Steel common dropped more than $10 a share and made feeble recovery.

BIDS ARE ASKED FOR 3 BRIDGES IN THIS COUNTY

Two in Lincoln Highway East of Gettysburg; Third Near East Berlin.

TORUSH WORK

Bids for the erection of three bridges and the construction of more than 32,000 feet of bituminous treated macadam highway, in two projects, and one 2,000-foot project of concrete highway in Adams county will be opened at the state highway department, Harrisburg, at 10 o'clock, October 25, according to advertisements in today's Gettysburg Times and this week's Star and Sentinel.

Two of the bridges to be erected are on the five-mile stretch of concrete, recently built between Guilford's station and New Oxford, the one over Swift Run, near Brush Run station, and the other over Little Conewago creek, on the western outskirts of New Oxford.

To Rebuild Approach The third bridge is to be erected over the Conewago creek in Reading township, near East Berlin. In connection with the erection of this bridge, the largest of the three for which bids are asked, the highway department is asking bids for the construction of 3,120 feet of macadam highway on Route 399 in Reading township and East Berlin borough.

The Reading township bridge is to be a two-span plate girder structure 70 feet long, with a roadway of 23 feet between curbs and an underclearance of about fifteen feet.

The second macadam road project is that in Cumberland and Mt. Joy townships on the Taneytown road. This stretch is 29,189 feet, and will be built of bituminous surface treated macadam.

Reinforced Concrete At both the Swift Run and Little Conewago bridges, approximately 500 feet on either side of both spans was left unpaved by the Paul R. Hostetter company, of York, builders of the five-mile stretch of Lincoln Highway this summer. These four stretches total 2,036 feet, which will be paved with concrete 20 feet wide.

The Swift Run bridge is to be reinforced concrete slab span 18 feet long, with an underclearance of 13 feet. The Little Conewago bridge is to be a two span reinforced concrete arch structure, 50 feet long, and having approximately 12-foot underclearance.

All of the work is expected to be completed before the end of the year.

College Records Reveal Attempt To Rob Bank Here 100 Years Ago

Circular Published Two Days After Entrance Was Gained Century Ago by Boring Hole in Wall of Gettysburg National "To Prevent Groundless Alarms and False Rumors" Comes to Light on Anniversary of Act.

The Gettysburg National bank today recalled the one hundredth anniversary of an unsuccessful attempt to rob its vault on the night of October 3, 1829.

Recently, there was found in the records of Gettysburg College a circular, printed by the bank two days after the attempted robbery "in order to prevent groundless alarms and the circulation of false reports."

The circular, yellow with age, but otherwise fairly well preserved, is captioned in bold-face type: "Attempt To Rob The Bank." It reads as follows:

"On Saturday night, between the 3d and 4th inst. a most daring attempt was made to rob the Bank of Gettysburg. The villain or villains succeeded in breaking a hole through the front part of the banking house, to the left of the door, and immediately below the window, on the level with the floor. The brick in this part of the wall had, by some means or other, been somewhat loosened from their cement, and thus facilitated the entrance of the burglar. A hole sufficiently large for a man to enter was made in the wall, and from traces inside, it appears that they entered and searched the counters and drawers. The Directors, however, are happy to state, that the villains, although successful in procuring entrance, were totally disappointed in their hopes of booty, not a single dollar having been taken—as we have counted all the money on hand. All the money in the banking room had been removed to the vaults in the evening, agreeably to custom; and nothing was left for the depredators, except some counterfeit bank-notes, and none of these were taken; and the vaults are so strong and masonry as to be utterly impregnable.—The next morning the breach was immediately repaired, and such additional means of strength and security adopted, as will render it impracticable to obtain entrance without creating alarm.—The most prompt and efficient measures will be taken to discover and bring to condign punishment the unknown depredators."

The Directors of the Institution have thought proper to make this statement to the public, in order to prevent groundless alarms, and the circulation of false reports."

The circular was signed by six directors of the bank, G. Smyser president; T. Stevens, R. Smith, S. Fahnestock, William McClellan, Jr., and J. B. McPherson, cashier. The Bank of Gettysburg, the forerunner of the present Gettysburg National, was located in a building on the site of the present bank building. The bank was chartered in 1814.

COUNCIL VOTES TO BORROW TO REDEEM BONDS

Two Thousand Dollars Required Immediately; Funds Grow Slowly.

BRIEF SESSION

With $12,000 already borrowed against the borough's special fund, council was advised at the regular October meeting, Thursday evening, by George Martin, that $2,000 was necessary immediately to redeem two municipal bonds at the Gettysburg National bank, called for redemption.

Taxes for both the general and special funds are coming in slowly. Mr. Martin said, and council decided to borrow the $2,000 needed to redeem the two municipal bonds and to take care of interest payments on other of the borough's obligations.

The borough treasurer said he has $441 in the special fund and $608.22 in the general fund, with no notes outstanding against the latter. But unless taxes are received promptly, the amount in the general fund, used for current operating expenses of the town, will not reach more than a month. Mr. Martin said, stating that the borough's expenses last month were in excess of $1,000.

It also was developed at the meeting that council has no record of the dates when its bonds fall due, so that the treasurer may be prepared to redeem them. Ross R. Myers, secretary, said he would prepare a list of the borough's bonds and the dates when they fall due.

Meeting Room Is Cold Thursday evening's meeting was one of the shortest on record, the session being called to order by President P. C. Stock at 7:45 o'clock and adjournment being taken at 8:30. The council chamber was like an ice box, and of the five councilmen present only J. Allen Dickson came fortified with an overcoat.

An ordinance regulating entry into the borough's sanitary sewer system was unanimously passed at the meeting. According to the ordinance, no building erected within the borough shall have the right of sewer connection unless prior to the erection of such building, the grade and elevation at which the building is to be erected be determined by the sewer committee.

Council voted to renew its contract with the Mathieson alkali works for chlorine for the sewage disposal plant at 8 1/2 cents a pound.

Bill's Are Approved Council also voted to protect a sewer opening on Franklin street, the matter being left in the hands of the highway and sewer committees.

The report of Burgess C. A. Heiges, showing collection of $141.75 for the month of September, was filed. The following bills were ordered paid:

C. A. Heiges, commissions, $104.33; Mathieson alkali works, $45; John S. Ogden, $4; Gettysburg Ice and Storage company, $2.80 and $4.35; Gardner's variety store, 25 cents; Gettysburg Water company, $54.15 and $11.50; U. C. L. company, $54.02; Plank and Bell, $7; Gettysburg department store, 65 cents; Western Maryland railroad, $5, and Gettysburg Gas company, $4.67.

Besides President Stock, councilmen at the meeting included Wilmert B. Neely, W. L. Oyster, H. T. Stauffer and J. Allen Dickson.

Weiss is Declared Sane and Is Discharged from Hospital; Arrested for Theft of Auto

Mute, In Limelight Recently During Investigation of the Drowning of His Wife in Adams County, Not Wanted by District Attorney Butt, Latter Advises.

Declared sane by Dr. E. M. Green, superintendent of the state hospital for the insane at Harrisburg, Clarence Weiss, Harrisburg deaf mute, suspected slayer of his wife, Carrie, whose badly decomposed body was found in Bermudian creek, near Heidlersburg, June 21, was released from the state institution and immediately arrested on a charge of stealing an automobile.

The charge was laid by Charles M. Toomey, of Harrisburg, whose automobile Weiss is alleged to have confessed taking while being grilled by state police here and at Harrisburg in connection with the finding of his wife's body. Weiss is said to have told police authorities that he stole three automobiles in Harrisburg at various times.

Weiss is alleged to have admitted taking Toomey's machine from the latter's garage, May 1.

Weiss, who was committed to the state hospital for the insane, after he attempted to commit suicide at state police barracks in Harrisburg, where he was removed from the Adams county jail for a further grilling in connection with his wife's disappearance, was released from the institution, Tuesday afternoon, after Doctor Green reported to Judge Frank B. Wickersham that the man was sane. A commission, appointed by Judge Wickersham, previously had reported to the court that the deaf mute was mentally deranged.

District Attorney John P. Butt, of Adams county, was notified of Weiss' release from the state hospital, and he informed the Harrisburg authorities that so far as he is concerned the investigation into the death of Mrs. Weiss is closed. The local prosecutor said Adams county authorities had no charge against Weiss.

The body of Mrs. Weiss, also a deaf mute, was found in Bermudian creek a week after she disappeared from her home in Harrisburg. Weiss was held by local state police when he came here to identify the body as that of his wife. Weiss denied steadfastly that the body was that of his wife, but two sisters of the dead woman later made positive identification of the body as that of Mrs. Weiss.

Had Tried Suicide The testimony of the two sisters, a dentist and several others, was taken at a preliminary inquest here at which the jury found that the body was that of Mrs. Weiss. The inquest was never re-opened however, because Weiss was adjudged insane and was committed to the state hospital.

Weiss was the last person to see his wife alive, according to the police investigation. He drove her in his machine to downtown Harrisburg, where she alighted from the car to shop, he said, while he went to the Harrisburg bathing beach.

When the police net of circumstantial evidence was being drawn about Weiss, he attempted suicide by hanging himself in a cell at state police barracks in Harrisburg. The lunacy commission's appointment followed.

Leaders of Prison Mutiny End Lives When Cornered; 13 Are Dead in Bloodfest

Execution Chamber of Unarmed Guards in Colorado Penitentiary Slippery With Blood as Rioters March Out to Surrender at Sunrise; Wounded Reported to Be Dying.

Canon City, Colorado, Oct. 4 (AP).—One of the bloodiest prison mutinies in the nation's history, which claimed the lives of seven guards and at least six convicts, took place at the Colorado state penitentiary here this morning when the four ringleaders of the uprising committed suicide.

Barred with more than 150 other convicts in cell house No. three, surrounded by troops and police, and hopelessly outnumbered, the ring leaders first killed a wounded comrade and then fired bullets through their own brains.

The other convicts then surrendered and were marched out of the cell house just at sunrise.

The mutiny left in its wake a list of 13 known dead and as many wounded, some of whom may die.

Four of the dead were prison guards, disarmed and slaughtered in cold blood, inside the cell house, to emphasize the convicts' demand for freedom. Warriors F. E. Crawford, who declined all offers to parley with the embattled prisoners, was wounded during one of the attacks on the cell block.

National Guard troops and police from four Colorado cities fired more than 7,000 rounds of ammunition into the convicts' stronghold during the night. The battle was marked by two attempts to dynamite the cell house walls, one blast breaking all the windows but failing to effect a breach in the masonry.

The hero of the dynamiting attempt was a Catholic priest, the Rev. Father Patrick O'Neill, who carried the bomb to the foot of the wall under cover of machine gun fire.

Three guards were killed at the outbreak of the rioting yesterday and four more during the night.

Another guard was found this morning stark mad from horror. He had seen his companions die under the convicts' fire and had been told he would be the next to meet his fate.

Three of the ringleaders were found dead in the cell where Danny Daniels, who led the rioting and who acted as executioner of the guards, had killed himself. Powder burns on their temples bore mute testimony to shots fired at close range.

The floor of the cell house, which last night served as the execution chamber of four unarmed guards, was slippery with blood. The bodies of two of the men were found in the cell house bound hand and foot.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—J. Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister, en route to Washington to visit President Hoover, and a good mission was enthusiastically acclaimed today as he set foot on American soil.

The distinguished visitor felt the first warmth of his reception at the quarantine station shortly after he arrived there on the liner "Beren-garia," which was escorted on the last 200 miles of the voyage by the American cruisers, Memphis and Trenton.

Twelve army planes soared overhead as the marine parade moved up the harbor and a salute of 19 guns boomed out from Governor's Island.

News and Comment by THE EDITOR

It's an ill wind that blows no one good, sure enough. The heavy rain of this week certainly proved a blessing in lifting, for a brief spell at least, the obnoxious stench from the sewage disposal plant.

"Our local hospital is one of the best equipped in the county," the secretary of the Gettysburg Rotary club tells members in his regular weekly letter.

Where is the other one, pray tell?

York is planning to purchase its water plant, according to news dispatches. Too bad, Gettysburg didn't accept the offer to buy its plant before it was turned over to metropolitan capitalists and security jugglers. The consumer, of course, pays and pays.

Announcement of the proposed consolidation of the Bell and Cumberland Valley Telephone companies seems to have proved a boomerang, instead of a cause of rejoicing. Before the announcement, Bell service to subscribers was excellent. Now they're both terrible.

The forthcoming World Series baseball set-to between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago Cubs recalls to the minds of old timers interested in sporting affairs the series of 1910 between these two teams when the late Eddie Plank, of Gettysburg, was the outstanding figure on the mound and played an important part in leading the Athletics to a four to two game victory.

"Along the Way" column in the York Springs Comet always contains some very interesting reminiscences of the editor and publisher, Harvey Neely, now active dean of Adams county newspaper men. Editor Neely, in his current issue, calls attention to the fact that "September was the month of extremes" in the matter of weather. The hottest day, he says, was September 3, when the thermometer recorded 97 degrees, and about two weeks later, on September 19, the mercury dropped to 38 degrees.

These interesting items are gleaned from the same column: "Fresh pumpkin pies, apple butter, scrapple, fresh pork sausage and fried mussel have made their annual debut but to me they do not mean anything more than a memory. A digestive apparatus which only operates on half time excludes such items from my diet sheet and confines my enjoyment of such food to sight and scent. I always detested the use of nutmegs as one of the spices used in pumpkin pies and in my boyhood days frequently hid them when my mother was making preparations to bake these custards. On one occasion I buried the nutmegs in the garden so that there would be no doubt of their elimination from the week-end pie baking.

"Pie for breakfast, dinner and supper was on the daily bill of fare in many households in this community thirty years ago. Sometimes there would be two or more varieties of pies served at the same meal along with some of the heavy food named in the previous paragraph. The use of breakfast foods has only come into general use during the past twenty years.

"Eggs reached the year's high mark in York Springs on Saturday when local merchants were paying 4 cents per dozen.

"Biddy has the feminine trait of destroying new clothes and now is taking a vacation while she grows a new set of leathers.

"Pullets hatched last winter and early spring are now busily engaged in egg laying contests but the demand for fresh hen fruit is very much ahead of the supply hence the present prices."

The New Oxford Business and Industrial Girls club will continue their work in basketry at their regular meeting to be held Monday evening in the club room.

Broker Is Freed Of Wife Killing

Allentown, Oct. 4 (AP).—Ray Van Wagenen, wealthy insurance broker of this city, today was acquitted at 11 A. M. of charges of slaying his socially prominent wife. The jury had been out since late yesterday afternoon.

The state had not asked for a first degree verdict, leaving the jury of nine men and three women the option of finding him guilty of manslaughter or second degree, or acquitting him.

Van Wagenen was accused of pushing or throwing his wife from his car on the night of August 18 causing her to suffer a fractured skull, from which she died.

SUNDOWN STORIES

UNLOADING THE CIRCUS
By Mary Graham Bonner

Just before the circus was over, John was handed a folded piece of paper. The oldest and jolliest of the clowns had handed it to him. John opened it and read:

"I almost forgot that I was going to turn the time back to the early morning when this circus was arriving. But, you see, I only almost forgot. I didn't completely forget."

"After the show is over keep your eyes tight shut for one minute and a half. That's all you have to do. And if you have any trouble figuring out how long that should be, do not worry! I'll come for you when the minute and a half is up. I'm having such a good time with my friends—but I didn't forget you, you see. All the circus people send their love."

The note was signed, "Your affectionate friend, The Little Black Clock."

John and Peggy did exactly what the little black clock suggested. "Are your eyes tight shut?" John asked Peggy.

"Yes. Are yours?"

"Yes."

And then came a great, shrill, long whistle.

"Open your eyes!" cried someone. And there, before them, stood the little black clock.

"The circus train is just arriving," the little black clock said.

Peggy and John found themselves up by the station. The orange and red cars of the circus train were pulling in. Out came the circus people. Along came the cages with the animals.

Down they all went to the fair grounds, with Peggy and John and the little black clock as well.

They watched the circus people unload and put up the tents. They talked to the clowns and to the performers.

THE LUXURY HUSBAND

SYNOPSIS: A wealthy girl vows she will marry a penniless musician against his will. Barbara Landon on ship-board unexpectedly meets Ray Lowther, who disappeared mysteriously three years before just after they had become engaged. Ray reluctantly explains that he fled because he suddenly learned his own fortune had been lost and regards Barbara's millions an insuperable barrier to their marriage. Barbara, three years of mad pleasure have not enabled her to forget her lover, and she begs him to marry her. He refuses, but acknowledges he still loves her. Barbara, determined to change his opinion and marry him, makes a mad threat—if he does not marry her, she will see that no other man ever wants her!

Chapter 5

A GIRL PLOTS

IN the days that followed Barbara made it painfully clear that she did intend carrying out her threat and, moreover, she set about doing so with a thoroughness that secretly delighted but openly scandalized everyone from 40 up.

As she strode around the deck with two or usually more men in tow, gray heads would be bent together and as like as not their owners would be whispering.

"Did you see Barbara Landon at the dance last night? My dear . . . if it weren't for her money she never would get away with it!"

The passengers stared at Barbara—her daring plan was succeeding.

Ralph Henderson was Barbara's constant escort and she now encouraged the Englishman in a manner that made his hopes soar high. She even permitted him to kiss her, although he found it disturbing that she invariably selected the most public places.

With his English viewpoint he felt that he would not have tolerated her conduct had he not thought that it suited his interests to do so.

Although he scarcely relished the thought of his future wife making herself as conspicuous as Barbara was doing, he felt that her bank account at his disposal would eventually prove sufficient compensation.

It was inevitable that the news of Barbara's escapades should reach Ray and, although Barbara and he had not spoken since that first night, she waved to him gaily when she and her partner first stepped on the dance floor.

"Baby millions seems sweet on you," Len once remarked.

Ray did not deign to reply, but he could not help a hot color coming into his face.

"Your girl friend's getting herself talked about," Len observed one night.

"Can't you let her alone? She's only having a good time," Ray said lamely.

"Only having a good time!" Len mimicked him. "Then she might as well broadcast her love scenes with that English fellow and have done with it!"

But that was too much for Ray. "I've stood about enough of your talk," he said angrily. "If you don't keep your mouth shut about Miss Landon, I'll thrash you within an inch of your life!"

He looked capable of doing it too, and it was this rather than his actual words that had a chastening effect upon the banjoist.

"Sorry. Didn't mean you to take me seriously. No harm meant, old man."

All the same, it was not likely that Ray would sleep any too well after such conversations. Barbara's conduct both hurt and infuriated him and, although he felt decidedly that something should be done, aside from marrying her he failed to see what he could reasonably do.

Sometimes, as he tossed sleeplessly to the tune of Len's heavy breathing, he would feel his resolutions waver. Supposing that it should be best for Barbara to marry him? Supposing that it be the only way to stop her present madness?

And, although he played continually with this idea, he was too stubborn by nature to accept it readily. He was wont at such moments to console himself with the thought that things couldn't possibly get any worse than they were already.

But, he had not taken into account Barbara's ingenuity. That things could and did get worse was evident and the climax was reached the night of the fancy dress ball.

It was common property that Barbara was well under way before she even appeared on the dance floor. She seemed to have omitted much of her costume. A hula-hula dancer she represented and it seemed that the largest item of her get-up had been the tin of cocoa with which she had smeared her body.

Ralph Henderson nearly lost his eyeglass—he did not usually wear one, but he was sporting one that night in his impersonation of a foreign diplomat—when he saw her.

However, he managed to assume a semblance of appreciation, having bowed himself double he replaced his monocle and said, "Ripping, what?"

Immediately she seized it from him and stuck it into her own eye. "Simply topping, don't cher know," she mimicked him then, linking her arm laughingly through his.

"Come on, Hendy, and buy me a drink."

He regarded her doubtfully.

"I say, old girl, don't you think you'd better wait a little . . ." but she interrupted.

"What's the matter? Never mind then, I'll get one of the others."

And knowing that she would, obediently, he followed her into the smoke room.

Naturally her costume was not lost upon Ray, nor, for that matter, upon the other boys in the orchestra.

Len whistled and opened his mouth to comment, but immediately shut it again. Ray looked too dangerous.

During one of the intervals, Barbara and Henderson were sitting in the smoke room discussing the various costumes. So good humored did she seem that the man judged it a fitting opportunity to suggest a plan on which he had been cogitating for days.

"I say, Barbara, I've had a brain wave! Supposin' we leave this boat at Southampton—I'm getting fed up with it, aren't you? We could run down to my place in Surrey and I'd put on a house party for you; what do you say?"

"Wonderful, Hendy! At times you're almost clever!"

His eyes lit suddenly and leaning towards her he squeezed her hand. He was too excited to notice that she moved hers out of his instantly.

"That's splendid!—absolutely. I'll begin making plans at once. It's a promise, what?"

Barbara agreed recklessly, "Yes. It's a promise."

Vicks Now Passes
26 Million Yearly!

More & More Millions Follow
Trend of Modern Medicine and Treat Colds Externally

To keep pace with the ever-growing demand for Vicks VapoRub, the external treatment for colds, another increase is being made in the figure of the Vicks slogan, made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly."

Only a short time ago, the well known "17 Million" was raised to "21 Million." Again this figure has been outgrown, as more and more people turn to this better way of treating colds. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—a jar for every family in the United States.

A generation ago, when Vicks was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers especially have appreciated this modern vaporizing ointment, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting children's delicate stomachs.

And so Vicks spread, until today it has become the family standby for colds—adults as well as children's—in more than 60 countries.

Soft, wavy hair!

The modern sculptured bobs do wonders to bring out your personality. But like other present-day modes of arranging the hair, they call attention to it. That's why it's so important nowadays to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant. The easiest and quickest way to give new lustre and color to hair, which has begun to look dull and lifeless, is with Danderine. And it makes the hair softer, easier to arrange; holds it in place.

Here's all you do. Each time you use your brush just put a little Danderine on it. It removes the oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; gives it more gloss than brilliantine. Waves "set" with it stay in longer.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It stops falling hair. A small bottle is enough to show its merit. Start on it tonight.

Vincent—Dougherty Wedding:
The Episcopal church of the Prince of Peace, this place, was the scene of a very beautiful wedding yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, when the rector of said church, Rev. H.
G. Vincent, united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Cornelia Dougherty, of this place.
The ceremony was performed in the presence of many friends of the contracting parties by Rev. Charles I. Wood, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, York.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lillie Dougherty, while Harry Vincent Walker, of Philadelphia, nephew of the groom, acted as groomsman. The wedding march was rendered by Miss McClean, organist of the church.

The bride was given away by her brother, J. Dorsey Dougherty, of the dry goods firm of Dougherty and Hartley.

The ushers were John DeK. Keith, Esq., and Alexander O'Neal.
The church was trimmed beautifully with potted plants and cut flowers.

Immediately after the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the already furnished home, corner of Carlisle and Water streets. They met with what might have been a very serious accident. He was

DISTURBED

When little girls of seven and eight Assemble at the garden gate,
And start their chatter on the lawn,
I find it difficult indeed
To get that hour of sleep I need.

There's something in those voices small
Which penetrates the stoutest wall,
And something in those merry strains
Which mocks at blinds and window panes.

With children at the garden gate,
No bedroom is inviolate.

But who am I that should despair
And end that noisy clatter there?
Not long such merriment will keep,
Not long shall I be robbed of sleep.
Those little girls of seven and eight
Will soon desert my garden gate.

But when they're grown and gone I may
Some time awake at break of day
And wish just once again to hear
Their childish laughter ringing clear
And understand, when it's too late,
The joy of children at the gate.

Run-Down, Weak, Nervous?

To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just give Tanlac the chance to do for you what it has done for millions.

Mrs. Albert J. Tucker, of 120
Orchard St., Natick, Pa., says:
"Six years I was a nervous wreck and suffered such severe headaches I could not ride on a trolley without being sick. Tanlac put me on my feet. Now I don't have headaches and enjoy the best of health."

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist. Your money back if it doesn't help.

FOOD SHOW SATURDAY

The Intermediate C. E.
Society of the St. James Lutheran church will hold a food sale Saturday October 5th on the first floor of the Gettysburg Department Store. Food on display and selling will begin 9 o'clock Saturday morning and will continue throughout the day and evening. Everybody invited.

zations and all Associa-

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor.
Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts.

Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

OH, THE RAIN!

I DO not dislike rainy days. I love them! And I love them more and more as the years pile up.

Last night it rained. I took my car from the garage and torments fell from the heavens. The heavy drops danced upon the pavements, like a great army of tiny fairies who wished only to touch the earth but once and then die in ecstasy.

I drove through a lovely park and a mist merely outlined the great, towering buildings all about. Half hidden lights spotted the horizon. Fast moving cars swished through the disappearing waters that scampered here and there. You could hear the song of the rubber wheels as they rapidly kissed the pavement and sped on to homes, appointments, the theatre and everywhere.

Oh, there is beauty to the rain. It refreshes everything, including the spring in one's heart!

I like to walk in the rain. I like to feel the slap of the drops upon my cheeks. I like the contact that is aroused and the akin-ship to the forces of Nature. Those drops! Where did they come from? Perhaps from far away lakes, rivers, or the ocean itself.
Perhaps some of them came from little brooks that emptied their hearts long ago far up in the mountains.

And what joy the rain brings too. Gardens, with their multitudes of flowers, smile their happiest after the rain, and all nature is so sweet and fresh—the morning after. And the sun reaches so close to the earth after the rain has had its play.

The gray colorings of a rainy night, with its interlacing of yellow light from windows, street lamps, and moving vehicles, is an inspiring sight. And the creeping lights from lighted store windows all along the extending streets add such a romantic glow while the rain is on and in its fullest play.

I have often watched the storm in the mountains when at camp. It's a wonderful sight. I have watched the rain approach from far across the great lake and then met its sudden run to my very feet.

Meditation seems so much finer while the rain is on. The complexities of life do not seem so strange. The rainy day doesn't sad-den me, as it does so many. I wish it saddened none. Why it should anyone, I am at a loss to know.

The rain drops are so clean and fresh. They must be made of a marvelous substance, else they would not take the exquisite form they do when they fall like tiny feathers during the months of the northern winters, in flakes of stars in snow.

MR. JOHN SPANGLER

ADAMS COUNTY MAN FEELS
100% BETTER. THANKS NATEX

Always felt drowsy and tired—liver was off—felt uneasy after meals.

This is the time of the year when folks seem to feel tired and run-down all the time. Appetite lags, food doesn't taste good, the liver becomes disordered. All your pep and strength seem to disappear. NateX, the new prescription made from roots and herbs which is now being so successfully introduced by a special laboratory representative at Murphy's Cut Rate Store, soon overcomes such complaints however arid brings back all that old vigor and vitality in full force.

One of the many in this section who have used NateX and found that it lived up to every claim made for it is Mr. John Spangler, Gardner, Adams Co. He says: "I read so much in the paper about how NateX was helping folks who seemed to complain the same way I did that I decided to try it and I must say that this new medicine sure does the work. It is the finest tonic I have ever taken."

"I used to feel tired and drowsy all the time. Sleep did not seem to rest me and food seemed tasteless to me. After eating I would always have an uneasy feeling in my stomach. My liver was also out of fix causing me to suffer constantly with constipation and biliousness. Thanks to NateX, however, I now feel 100 per cent better. I rest better at nights and have more pep than in many a day. I can enjoy every meal and no longer feel uneasy after eating. The biliousness and constipation have also been relieved and I feel so much better in every respect that it is a pleasure to recommend this new tonic to others."

The NateX Representative at Murphy's Cut Rate Store will gladly explain the merits of NateX to you and allow you to sample this wonderful new prescription free. See him today. NateX is also sold by Read's at Westminster and Murphy's at Hanover.
